

The Spokesman

"Empire buyers are Empire builders. For us the Empire begins in Canada," is a real motto!

Let us encourage our industries by buying Canadian goods. Empire Shopping a good policy.

L. III—No. 9

DRUMMONDVILLE, AUGUST 26, 1930

PRICE FIVE CENTS

"IMPROVEMENT" SPECIAL TRAIN WILL STOP HERE SEPTEMBER 24th

of Its Kind Operated This Province — Organized in Co-operation Equipped Throughout with Exhibits Teaching Soil Improvement.

FERTILIZERS

regarding the most active sign yet undertaken in Quebec for the improvement of fertility in certain of the agricultural districts, as part of the effort for agricultural betterment, the Quebec department of agriculture, co-operating with the Canadian National Railways' agricultural department, announce the formation of a "soil improvement" train, throughout the eastern townships of the province, for two weeks commencing Monday, September 15. The announcement was made by Dr. W. Mack, director of agricultural resources development, Canadian National Railways, following arrangements made with H. C. Bois, director of economics for the Quebec department of agriculture.

ITS PURPOSE

The special train is the first of its kind to be operated in Quebec. Its direct purpose is to bring to the farmer's mind the need of greater use of lime fertilizer to increase the soil fertility of their farms. The train is completely equipped with exhibits and charts showing the lessons of soil improvement. One of the outstanding features of the train will be a laboratory and analysis car, in which the farmers may bring samples of their soils for testing to determine lime and other requirements. This is the first time such a service has been brought to the farmers, and it will be a most valuable opportunity of ascertaining the exact condition of the soils of their farms. There will also be a lecture car in which lectures will be given at each stop.

IN E. TOWNSHIPS

The train will be under the direction of Mr. Bois, of the Quebec department of agriculture, and officers of the Canadian National Railways' department of agriculture, and there will also be in attendance soil experts and other officers of the provincial and federal departments of agriculture and experimental farms and agricultural colleges.

The train will make a total of 15 stops, at each of which there will be a morning or afternoon session on each week-day. Coming at Coaticook on September 5, the stops to be made are:

5,000 By-Law as Turned Down By Sherbrookers

1 Votes and Valuations against Project — Citizens Claim More Information Needed.

FILTRATION

Sherbrooke. — Not only was the by-law rejected by the voters Friday, but it went to perhaps the most decisive defeat ever registered in the history of any of Sherbrooke's municipal by-laws.

All there were 870 votes cast, of a total of 1,927. Of this 691 voted against the by-law and 179 in favor of it, making a majority of 512 against. There was also a majority in valuation of 7,228 against the by-law.

The filtration project was under consideration for many months before the city council and the aldermen every opportunity possible of giving the citizens the information they had a right to expect, but the citizens claim they did not press repeatedly tried to gain assistance to the secret committee members, when the matter was discussed, but these efforts met no success. The press reporters politely asked to "keep out."

Town Council

Regular town council meeting, to be held to-morrow night, at Courchesne Hall. Several questions are to come up and it is in the possibility that the report of this year's valuation roll be submitted.

An Increase in Births During Month of July

Drop of Twenty-Seven Per Cent. in Number of July Marriages Another Feature of Statistical Report for Past Month.

QUEBEC'S SHOWING

During the month of July, 1930, an increase of five and a half per cent was shown, in the number of births in Canadian cities of over ten thousand population compared with July, 1929. In Quebec, the number was almost similar for the two periods, while the Maritime Provinces showed a decline of three per cent. The largest percentage of increase was in British Columbia, where the number of births increased nine per cent, according to figures issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Health conditions throughout the country must have improved in the course of the year, for the number of deaths was two per cent lower, Quebec making the best showing with a reduction of seven and a half per cent. The number of deaths in the western provinces advanced twenty-six per cent between July, 1929, and July, 1930.

Marriages fell twenty-six per cent in similar periods. The drop proved most noticeable in Quebec, where forty-one fewer couples went to the altar in 1930 than in 1929. In the Maritimes, the decline was thirty-three per cent. In the Prairie Provinces, the decrease was only one per cent.

The City of Sherbrooke ranked fourth in the Province of Quebec in point of births and deaths in July, while it dropped to fifth position in point of marriages. With seventy-five births and twenty-seven deaths, Sherbrooke was exceeded by Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers. Sixteen marriages placed the city behind Montreal, Quebec, Three Rivers and Hull.

Still births are recorded as births and deaths in the above figures.

Celanese Took E. T. F. A. Final From Asbestos

Drummondville Boys Gained Possession of Trophy by Two to One Victory Over Miners on Saturday.

AT SHERBROOKE

Playing at the Parade Grounds, Sherbrooke, on Saturday afternoon, the Drummondville football squad administered a two, to one defeat to the Asbestos eleven to capture the final game for the Eastern Townships' Football Association cup.

The match was one of the hardest fought seen on the local field for some time, both teams being determined to capture the silverware. During the first half the Celanese lads put in a single counter, and the best efforts of the Miners to equalize the score proved unsuccessful.

Early in the second Asbestos tied the count with a center kick, only to have Drummondville take the lead again a few minutes later, and hold it throughout the remainder of the game in spite of the valiant efforts of the Miners.

More Warm Weather

Rain over the week-end added a half inch to the month's total to date, making the total fall 1.5 inches, still less than half the normal amount for August. Though rain has been recorded on 12 days of the present month here the falls in most cases were very light.

The mercury started on its upward path again after receiving a check over the week-end. The 70 mark was passed about 11 o'clock, yesterday, and higher temperatures were expected for to-day and to-morrow as the official forecast from the Dominion Meteorological Office at Toronto was "fair and warmer."

DRUMMOND COUNTY FAIR WILL BE HELD AT L'AVENIR SEPTEMBER 1 AND 2; DESERVES SUPPORT OF PUBLIC

BRINGING BODIES OF LOST EXPLORERS

Stockholm, Sweden.—The sealing vessel Brattvaag, hurrying ahead of the rapidly forming Arctic ice, may reach Tromsø on the northern coast of Norway, by September 1, with the bodies of Salomon August Andree, Swedish balloonist, and his two companions, frozen in the ice on White's Island for 33 years.

Ice conditions despite the approach of fall were reported good Sunday. There was a possibility the scheduled stop of the Brattvaag at Spitsbergen would be cancelled in order to bring the bodies direct to Tromsø. Latest reports reaching here said all three bodies of the daring Swedish balloonists, first to seek the North Pole by air, were on board the little sealing ship on which the fascinated interest of the world centres as it pushes its way back to civilization from the frozen Arctic.

Accident At Katevale Is Fatal to Boy

Fourteen-Year-Old Arsene Roy, Son of Mr. Joseph Roy, of Katevale, Met Instantaneous Death When He Was Struck by Car.

INQUEST HELD

Katevale, Que.—Fourteen-year-old Arsene Roy, oldest son of Mr. Joseph Roy, of this place, met his death Friday afternoon when he was struck by a car driven by his cousin, Mr. Dominique Labrecque, and suffered a fractured skull, together with broken arms and legs. The boy was playing in the yard of his home, situated on the road between Magog and Katevale. When he perceived his cousin driving along the highway, young Roy dashed across the road to greet his cousin, was struck by the car and dragged a distance of thirty feet.

In an endeavor to avert the boy, (Continued on page 4)

Celanese Lost Tennis Honors to Sherbrooke

Queen City Players Scored Six to One Victory Over Celanese on Latter's Courts, Sunday.

THE MATCHES

Sherbrooke carved itself a niche in the sphere of tennis when they took their third straight inter-club victory Sunday afternoon at Drummondville. However, the six to one margin by which they defeated the Celanese representatives is not a true indication of the play in the different events, as it was only the superior stamina and scoring punch that gave the visiting players their victories. The rather top-aided result was unexpected, as the reputation of the Drummondville players is well known throughout the Eastern Townships.

The young players representing Sherbrooke were at their best and played inspired tennis to take six out of the seven events contested. All the matches but two went to three sets, and it was the continual grind which wore down the Celanese players and gave Sherbrooke their margin. Sherbrooke made a clean sweep of the singles, the second doubles being the only match lost to the local players.

A large number of tennis fans had gathered when Dick Rouleau took the courts for his first singles match against L. DeVerteul. Rouleau ran out the first four games before his opponent was able to sal-

Hurt by Cycle

A motorcycle, the property of Mr. Elise Pelloquin, had been left in the latter's yard, Sunday afternoon, and Pierre, 6 years, son of Mr. Alonzo Rocheleau, thought it would not be harmful to play with the two wheeled thing, but it came out to be so, unfortunately. The cycle fell on the little lad, pinning him to the ground and causing him light injuries which at first were thought to be more serious.

Under direction of Drummond County Agricultural Society — Directors and Various Committee — Hon. Laferte May be Present — Mr. Girouard, M. P., Amongst Speakers.

NUMEROUS EXHIBITS

The Drummond County annual fair will this year be held Monday and Tuesday next, September 1 and 2, at L'Avenir, and the organizers are anticipating a great success for that agricultural event. As in the past Drummondville and the other towns of Drummond will be well represented on that occasion, and so will encourage the farming class whose products will be exhibited at L'Avenir, those two days.

The fall fairs held each year by county associations make a notable contribution to agriculture in the particular district which they serve. They stimulate competition, the best medium of promoting better work in any field of endeavor, and no field needs to attain such a high standard as does agriculture. They result in the recognition and rewarding of those who have striven for the best. And they do much to bring together farmers and townspeople, teach the former especially the best methods of carrying on their work and give them new ideas. The county fair is a worthy institution deserving the support of Government and private people alike.

(Continued on page 4)

TWO WOMEN KILLED AT C.N.R. LEVEL CROSSING IN DANVILLE

Mrs. Pomeroy, Upton, Mass., and Miss Hampton, Richmond, Victims — Chauffeur Had No Clear View of Railroad Tracks.

Mrs. L. Pomeroy, aged 40, of Upton, Mass., and Miss Eileen Hampton, aged 18, of Richmond, were killed and four other women were injured, one seriously when the car in which they were driving was struck by the Murray Bay special of the Canadian National railways about a mile west of Danville on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Grant Kelly, of Richmond, is in the hospital in a serious condition, suffering from a broken thigh and other injuries. The other occupants of the car were Mrs. Ross Gaddie, of Montreal, a sister of Mrs. Kelly and Miss Hampton, Miss Patricia Kelly and Miss Moreen Kelly, of Montreal, nieces of Mr. Kelly.

(Continued on page 4)

SCHOOLS OPEN NEXT WEEK; VACCINATION OBLIGATORY

Protestant and Catholic Schools Here Ready to Receive Pupils—A Regulation to be Strictly Enforced This Year.

FINAL WARNING

All the Protestant and Catholic Schools in Drummondville will reopen next week when work for the new year will immediately get under way. They all have been put into shape for occupation by teachers and students once again, and all necessary repairs and ameliorations have been carried out.

MUST BE VACCINATED

As a final warning to school pupils and parents that no child will be admitted to school unless vaccinated against smallpox, Dr J.-L. Faillie, medical health officer for this district, has issued the following bulletin:

"The health department of this district gives this last advise before the reopening of schools.

"The parents should remember that the school authorities, to comply themselves with the provincial and municipal by-laws, will have to refuse the admission in their school, of any non-vaccinated child."

SPLENDID EXHIBIT OF CATTLE AT ANNUAL RICHMOND COUNTY FAIR

In Number of Entries and Quality of Exhibits Richmond Agricultural Society Had Best Fair in Its History, This Year.

The seventy-fourth annual fair of the Richmond Agricultural Society got away to a splendid result last week and if the number of entries and the quality of the exhibits in each department prove a reliable criterion on which to base a prophecy, it was the best fair in the history of the Society.

There were approximately twenty per cent more exhibitors this year than there were in 1929. The total number of entries made aggregated over 2,500.

From early morning, the first day, the officers and their efficient staff of workers were busy receiving and arranging the exhibits in the hall and in allotted space in the live stock stables. The stables provided for housing the cattle were soon filled to overflowing, and not a few exhibitors had to

COUNTERFEIT MONEY CIRCULATED

Counterfeit Bank of Nova Scotia ten dollar bills are being circulated in Canada, according to a warning issued by the Federal Government to the local police authorities. The spurious money is described as follows:

"The counterfeit is a photographic copy of the front of the genuine note issue of January 2nd, 1929, serial letter 'A'. In appearance it is darker and is slightly blurred. The back is of the 1924 issue but of a deeper blue and is quite blurred. The numbers, which are crudely executed, are about the same height but wider, and the figures, 20082, on one counterfeit already presented take up slightly more space on the genuine bill. In size, one of the fictitious notes presented is about one-sixteenth of an inch smaller than the genuine, while another is rather greasy and has a shiny finish."

SHERBROOKE FAIR IN FULL SWING

Saturday was the official opening day of Canada's Great Eastern Exhibition. This is the forty-sixth year that the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association officials have conducted this popular and important exhibition, which each year attracts thousands of visitors to Sherbrooke from all sections of the Province of Quebec, as well as from more distant sections of Canada and from many of the New England States.

ACCLAMATION FOR ALL MINISTERS

Ottawa. — Re-election by acclamation of Premier R. B. Bennett and fourteen of his Ministers in today's by-elections clears the way for calling a session of Parliament to deal with unemployment for early in September. The date for the opening will probably be announced after a meeting of the Cabinet now called for Wednesday afternoon, when a quorum of Ontario and Quebec Ministers will have returned to the capital. Already bound eastward from Calgary, the Prime Minister doubtless will communicate his wishes within the next twenty-four hours or so on the date for convening Parliament.

Under instructions issued, writs showing the re-election of Premier Bennett and his colleagues today will be returned to Ottawa by the first mail. On their receipt, the reelection of the Prime Minister and his fourteen ministers will be gazetted.

Several Auto accidents But None Serious

During Past Week, in D'ville and District — Car Hit Telephone Post Near L'Avenir — Slight Injuries.

COLLISIONS

As is usual this time of the tourist season, several automobile accidents have been reported, since the beginning of last week, but fortunately only material losses resulted.

CARS COLLIDED

On the St. Cyrille highway a car, the property of and driven by Mr. Antoine Ally, of La Visitation, was in collision with a heavy American machine. Each was damaged for approximately $100.

Mr. Arthur Gobeil's car collided with a lighter car, on Heriot street, Saturday, but the impact did only slight damages.

TWO IN ONE

Mr. Edgar Larocque, local fruit dealer, was driving with his family towards L'Avenir, early last week, when he suddenly lost the control of his machine which took to the ditch and finally hit a telephone post. One of Mr. Larocque's young daughters suffered light injuries and the car was quite damaged.

Only a few minutes after this accident, a Hudson car, the property of Mr. George Conly, of Asbestos, was coming along the same road and its chauffeur, his curiosity attracted by the ditched car of Mr. Larocque, stopped it so quickly that the machine turned turtle in the ditch. Mr. Conly was injured to the head, but not seriously. The Hudson was badly damaged.

Find Farnham Notary Guilty of Conversion

J. R. Comeau to Be Sentenced by Judge Lemay at Sweetsburg This Afternoon — Liquor Case Heard.

$5,000 CONVERTED

Sweetsburg. — J. R. Comeau, a notary of Farnham, was found guilty by Judge Lemay in the Magistrate's Court here Thursday of converting to his own use securities to the value of about five thousand dollars, which were entrusted to him for safekeeping. He was remanded for sentence until this afternoon.

Victor Viens, of Dunham, was sentenced to a fine of two hundred dollars and costs or six months in jail when he was found guilty of having illicit liquor in his possession.

Had Quiet Time

The police and firemen have had an exceptionally quiet period since the last week. There have been no calls for fires, accidents or disturbances. The Judges of the Peace's Court has not held a session since these last two weeks.

CANADIAN STOCKS RESISTED WEAK TREND OF UNITED STATES MARKET

E. T. NEWS OF INTEREST

TOOK HIS LIFE

Lennoxville. — Apparently despondent as a consequence of difficulty in finding work, Hebert Birdsall, age sixty-five years, of Lennoxville, took his life Friday afternoon by drinking a dose of poisonous sodium cyanide.

Birdsall was a resident of Lennoxville, a laborer, who came to the home of Frederick Wain about a week ago. On Friday afternoon at about two o'clock he staggered out and fell. Dr. Windsor, of Lennoxville, was called to the scene, but could do nothing to save the victim.

An inquest was held over which Coroner L. Bachand, of Sherbrooke, presided, and a verdict of death by suicide was rendered. A note was found upon Birdsall which intimated that he "was sick of it all" and had taken a dose of sodium cyanide. Evidence of the poison was found in the house.

FIRE AT BEEBE

Beebe. — A conflagration here Thursday night destroyed the large stone-shed owned by Mr. Arthur Russell. The fire, the origin of which is unknown, was first discovered at about twelve-thirty o'clock after it had gained considerable headway. When the fire-fighters arrived upon the scene, the shed was a mass of flames, and it was soon apparent that little could be done to save the building.

The stone-shed was burned to the ground and is a complete loss. It was used by Mr. Arthur Russell himself, together with Mr. E. Boucher and Mr. A. Huard. It contained many finished monuments and considerable polishing machinery.

HIT BY BULLET

Chesham. — Mr. A. Geboulor, of Notre Dame des Bois, was conveyed to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Sherbrooke, Friday morning, suffering from a bullet wound in the chest.

The father of the young man was shooting at a porcupine, when a stray bullet struck the victim, who was some distance away. The course which the bullet took when it struck him would indicate that he was bending over, for the lead lodged itself near the ribs. He was operated on Saturday morning, and his condition, although regarded as serious, is not necessarily critical.

CAR TOOK PLUNGE

Coaticook. — A serious accident, which might have had fatal consequences, occurred here Thursday, shortly after twelve o'clock, when a car, containing seven American tourists, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Otter and son, of New York City; the Misses Ethel and Elizabeth Rooney, of Lawrence, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. O'Callaghan, of Boston Mass., pitched over a forty-foot embankment in front of Maurais' Garage, Compton street, known as the old Beech Factory Hill.

The cause of the accident has been attributed to the skidding of the car across the wet road. The ill-fated car overturned twice, as it plunged down the steep embankment, and one of the seven occupants received serious injuries. Miss Ethel Rooney is the one who suffered most from the accident, receiving a severe bruise on the back of the head and serious internal injuries, the exact nature of which is not known.

KNOCKED BY CAR

Sherbrooke. — Mr. Joseph LaCourse, an aged resident of the Sacred Heart Hospital, miraculously escaped serious injury Thursday afternoon when he was struck by a car in front of No. 4 Fire Station.

Troubadours Here

At least three hundred citizens attended, Tuesday night, at the K. of C. Hall, a very pleasant musical entertainment organized under the auspices of Frontenac Brewery. The program, which was of good choice, was rendered by a trio of well-known Montreal troubadours, Emile Gour, Hercule Roy and Armand Gauthier. Popular French songs were the principal numbers. Mr. Loisele, talented monologist, kept his audience under the charm of his comical stories for a good part of the evening. Mr. Pierre Beaubien, vice-president and manager of the Frontenac Brewery, addressed the audience in favor of his firm and its well-known produce.

Reports from Leading Centres in Canada and United States Indicate Quite Clearly that Worst of Depression Appears to Have Passed.

OIL STOCKS

Leading shares of the Canadian stock exchanges last week showed pronounced resistance to the bearish trend evidenced in American markets, and at times exhibited a distinctly firmer tendency under a moderate volume of investment. At the close of the week such shares as Brazilian Traction, International Nickel, Ford of Canada "A", Noranda and the steels compare favorably with their quotations of a week ago. Oils, on the other hand, yielded to moderate selling, and nearly all the leaders of the petroleum group moved downward.

Individual issues were prominent both at Toronto and Montreal, in spite of the fact that gains in most cases were small. The announcement that Consolidated Smelters' earnings had fallen sharply in the first six months of 1930 was followed by severe decline to a new low price for 1930, but a gradual improvement set in and at the close of the week, Smelters sold at 173. International Nickel was also the centre of attention following its earnings statement which revealed half yearly profits equal to fifty cents on the common, but it too recovered from recent weakness, and in a series of minor advances rose to 22 5-8 compared with 20 3-4 a week ago. Nickel rights also advanced in buoyant fashion.

BRAZILIAN TRACTION

Brazilian Traction was one of the few Canadian market leaders to show a decline for the week. A fractional advance which followed the announcement of higher earnings by the company in July gave place to renewed selling and at its closing price on Friday Brazilian had dropped from 34 3-4 to 32 during the week. A year ago these fluctuations might have been considered no more than usual but to this summer's market, still chastened by the collapse of last autumn, they have more than ordinary significance. Reports from leading centres in Canada and the United States indicate quite clearly that the worst of the depression appears to have passed. At the same time there is no "wave of optimism" either in the security market or in business and it is this middle course of opinion that the stock market now reflects. It is in spite of these considerations, rather than because of them that the action of Canadian (Continued on page 2)

Baby Killed In Accident Near Farnham

Car Containing Mr. and Mrs. George Fitzgerald and Family, of Montreal, Turned Over Twice — Eighteen-Months-Old Baby Instantly Killed.

MISSED CURVE

Farnham. — A fatal accident occurred on the road to Cowansville, a few miles from here, early Friday afternoon, when a car containing Mr. and Mrs. George Fitzgerald and family, of 6625 Esplanade Avenue, Montreal, missed a curve and turned over twice.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Campbell, while on their way to Cowansville, suddenly came upon the wrecked car, with the unlucky victims pinned beneath, and immediately summoned help.

It was found that the eighteen-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, had been instantly killed. Mrs. Fitzgerald sustained severe lacerations to the scalp, but the other members of the party escaped with minor bruises. Mrs. Fitzgerald was removed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, in Farnham, where her injuries were attended to.

Joyous Excursion

The members of the David Academy and several representatives of the choir of the same institution, accompanied by some of their professors, made an interesting trip to the Sorel district, and also visited Nicolet and St. Celestin, last week. The happy voyageurs travelled in one of Mr. Aime Boisvert's trucks.

SOUL & PERSONAL

Messrs Lee Broadhead, of Boston Falls, and Alfred Roy, of Cowansville, paid a short visit in our midst yesterday.

M. O. E. Rivou is passing the week among his family in Matane. There is one difficulty less to swagger in the sea by Peak's Island on the Maine coast. Bob Telar sought the platform and with a short account of their services to the church and its varied social activities presented them with a silver tea service and tray as an earnest testimony of the kindly feeling of officials and members of the United Church in D'ville. Mr. and Mrs. Elvins opened the gift box unaware of its contents till then, which weighed 67 pounds and its said the catch is the biggest ever and is subject of wondering gossip wherever fishing stories are told.

Mr. Roch Charpentier, of Detroit, Mich., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Charpentier. Mrs. V. A. Pilon, Mrs. R. C. Ritchot and Miss F. A. Beaudoin, all of Montreal, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Brunelle, Lindsay street.

At a glorious shower of pre-nuptial blessings in her home on Convent St., Miss Gertrude Millar, last Friday was entertained by a large party of friends and relatives. There was good music and choice refreshments and many delightful stories told to encourage the young lady in her adventure matrimonial.

And a dinner of ninety seven pieces of good china from the warehouse of J. S. Mitchell, Sherbrooke, was presented to her and a load of good wishes. Among the young ladies were Misses Marcelline and Estelle Moisan, the Misses Therese and Annette Marchessault, Miss Aileen Niquette, Miss J. Le Guerrier, Miss B. Dupont, Miss Lenaine, New York City, Mesdames Wilbert Christian, Paul Audet, P. Guerevont, Miss J. Duguay, Miss Peppin, Miss Annette Robins. The wedding will be celebrated in the Parish Church of Drummondville, by the Rev. Canon Georges Melancon, at 6:30 in the morning of Monday, September first proximo. The bridegroom will be Mr. Lalumiere who is to be congratulated on linking up with a family which was at the beginning of this settlement in 1815 of much importance.

Miss Lina Lawlor, of Sorel, was last week the guest of her friends, the Misses Estelle and Marcelline Moisan.

Miss Eva Reid, from Prout's neck, Maine, has been a guest of Mrs. R. Melvin, Heriot St., last week. In the Parish of Canada hall, on Lindsay St., last Saturday evening a pleasant "surprise" party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Elvins, of the Celanese Colony, who are to leave town the week to make their home in Maryland, U.S.A. Since the movement began in 1926 to have a place of worship for the Nonconformists residing here, Mr. and Mrs. Elvins, who were Presbyterians in their native land, have been consistent and continuous workers in the cause both being present at the first service held in Courtois's hall, on Heriot St. north. The Rev. Robert Smith, D. D., of Clifton Avenue, Notre Dame de Grace, Montreal, who from the beginning has had charge of the local Church, presided over Saturday's meeting and in an interval of the excellent musical programme called the guests of the evening to the platform and with a short account of their services to the church and its varied social activities presented them with a silver tea service and tray as an earnest testimony of the kindly feeling of officials and members of the United Church in D'ville. Mr. and Mrs. Elvins opened the gift box unaware of its contents till then, which weighed 67 pounds and its said the catch is the biggest ever and is subject of wondering gossip wherever fishing stories are told.

At a glorious shower of pre-nuptial blessings in her home on Convent St., Miss Gertrude Millar, last Friday was entertained by a large party of friends and relatives. There was good music and choice refreshments and many delightful stories told to encourage the young lady in her adventure matrimonial. And a dinner of ninety seven pieces of good china from the warehouse of J. S. Mitchell, Sherbrooke, was presented to her and a load of good wishes. Among the young ladies were Misses Marcelline and Estelle Moisan, the Misses Therese and Annette Marchessault, Miss Aileen Niquette, Miss J. Le Guerrier, Miss B. Dupont, Miss Lenaine, New York City, Mesdames Wilbert Christian, Paul Audet, P. Guerevont, Miss J. Duguay, Miss Peppin, Miss Annette Robins. The wedding will be celebrated in the Parish Church of Drummondville, by the Rev. Canon Georges Melancon, at 6:30 in the morning of Monday, September first proximo. The bridegroom will be Mr. Lalumiere who is to be congratulated on linking up with a family which was at the beginning of this settlement in 1815 of much importance.

Accidents On Railways Took A Heavy Toll

During Month of May Forty-One Persons Were Killed and 183 Injured—None of Those Killed Were Passengers—Ontario Led Provinces in Number of Accidents.

Ottawa, Oct. — Railway accidents in Canada during May took a toll of forty-one lives and resulted in injuries to 183 persons, it is shown in a report issued by the Board of Railway Commissioners. None of those killed were passengers on trains; ten were railway employees and thirty-one were not. Of those injured, thirteen were train passengers, 111 were railroad employees and fifty-nine were not.

Of the total number of accidents, 166 were strictly railway accidents, accounting for twenty-six lives and injuries to 145 persons. The remaining twenty-nine accidents occurred at railway crossings and resulted in fifteen persons killed and thirty eight injured. Twenty-one of these latter accidents occurred in daylight. Ontario led the other provinces in number of fatal railway crossing accidents, with a total of fifteen. Saskatchewan had the fewest deaths, Alberta two, Prince Edward Island one, Nova Scotia two, New Brunswick one, and Quebec, four.

Paris Making Preparations for Exhibit

French Tricolor Waves Over Population of 100,000,000—Other Nations Will Take Part in Exposition.

Paris. — France and especially Paris, is always a focus for travelers from every corner of the world; but in 1931 a special attraction will be felt by the inhabitants of her colonies — and of the colonies of other countries as well. The International Colonial Exposition, which will open next year, will draw direct world attention to the magnificent overseas empire over which the Tricolor waves today, an empire which has a population of 100,000,000, and whose territory stretches from Miquelon to Madagascar, from Saigon to Senegal.

This "Greater France" is an economic unit, a world state, a picturesque conglomeration of varying races, creeds and colors. To make it better known, to reveal its human material resources, a veritable "Greater France" exposition is being constructed in the Bois de Vincennes, on the outskirts of Paris. OTHER NATIONS TO PARTICIPATE. Six other nations, Great Britain, Portugal, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Denmark, will take part, also the score or more of France's overseas possessions. The United States Government will also participate officially remains to be seen — a bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the purpose is now pending in Congress, but in any event numerous American firms have requested authorization to exhibit their products in the Exposition.

The reason for this is that the French colonies constitute a growing market for American manufacturers. Exports from the United States to France colonies have increased in value from $7,000,000 in 1913 to $28,000,000 in 1929, and United States imports from these territories have grown from $7,000,000 in 1913 to $11,000,000 in 1929. According to Dr. Julius Klein, United States Assistant Secretary of Commerce, "the French colonial market will in a few years play a big role in the ensemble of American foreign commerce."

Many small business houses are represented in Paris by French branches, fully organized under French law, and as such are entitled to obtain patents in the Metropolitan Section of the Exposition. Preparations for the opening, still almost a year in the future, are already beginning to transform not only the Bois de Vincennes, but adjacent sections of Paris. Subways are being built to the Exposition entrance, and whole blocks of buildings will shortly be razed to permit of widening the thorough approaches to the fairgrounds, in order to provide for the enormous stream of motorists, buss and trams which will carry visitors to the exhibition. Among the picturesque buildings to be erected in a reproduction of the famous temple of Angkor-Vat, in Siam, which is a magnificent example of the type of architecture indigenous to French Indo-China.

Accidents On Railways Took A Heavy Toll

During Month of May Forty-One Persons Were Killed and 183 Injured—None of Those Killed Were Passengers—Ontario Led Provinces in Number of Accidents.

Ottawa, Oct. — Railway accidents in Canada during May took a toll of forty-one lives and resulted in injuries to 183 persons, it is shown in a report issued by the Board of Railway Commissioners. None of those killed were passengers on trains; ten were railway employees and thirty-one were not. Of those injured, thirteen were train passengers, 111 were railroad employees and fifty-nine were not.

Of the total number of accidents, 166 were strictly railway accidents, accounting for twenty-six lives and injuries to 145 persons. The remaining twenty-nine accidents occurred at railway crossings and resulted in fifteen persons killed and thirty eight injured. Twenty-one of these latter accidents occurred in daylight. Ontario led the other provinces in number of fatal railway crossing accidents, with a total of fifteen. Saskatchewan had the fewest deaths, Alberta two, Prince Edward Island one, Nova Scotia two, New Brunswick one, and Quebec, four.

Celanese Lost...

Drummond County Fair Will Be Held...

Officers of the Agricultural Society are the following: President, Rev. A. Thérion, Hon. H. Lafort, Minister of Colonization and Fisheries, who is expected to attend, and M. Wilfrid Girouard, M. P., who will be among the orators. Officers — James Gallagher, president; Xavier Charpentier, vice-president; J. C. Saint-Amant, secretary. Directors — James Gallagher, Alfred Rambois, George Mooney Alvah Cross, Edm. Provencier, Austin Duff, Maurice Raibeau, Henry Smith, Albert Label, Adrien Guerevont, Xavier Charpentier, C. M. Wintle, Eugene Caille, St. Simoneau, Johnston Walsh, Edmond Blanchet, Wm. McCrea, Wilfrid P. Joyal, Albert Niederer, Philippe Lamoureux, Donat Niederer, Philippe Lamoureux, Donat Niederer, Lamoureux Directors — C. N. Lyster, Nap. Proulx, C. H. Miller, W. H. Alex. Mercier, H.-E. Bieher, K. G. Nourse, Dr. A. Ragotte, Dr. Jos. Caron, Dr. G. de Y. Johnson, Anthony J. Cotte, Geo. O. Cummings, W. A. Moisan, Dr. L. Lane-Charpentier, Committees — Horas, J. Walsh, C. M. Wintle; Cattle, Moise Raibeau, Albert Label, Wilfrid Joyal, A. Guerevont; Hens, Henry Smith, Philippe Lamoureux, Edmond Blanchet; Sheep and Swine, Edm. Provencier, Eugene Caille, Alvah Cross; Fruits, Wm. McCrea, Fruits, Rains, Grain and Vegetables; Alfred Pautley, Xavier Charpentier, Dairy, Home-made Glass, Pastry, Flowers, etc. Donat Sarazin, Wm. McCrea, Austin Duff, Ladies Dept. present: Geo. Mooney, Albert Niederer, Mrs. Geo. Mooney, Mrs. X. Charpentier, Mrs. C. H. Bogie and Miss Maria St-Amant. Grounds, Reception and Entertainments: James Gallagher.

There will this year be an unusual large display of exhibits of all kinds at the Drummond Fair, it is reported.

Two Women Killed at C.N.R. Level Crossing in Danville. The six ladies, who were staying at Richmond, set out in Mrs. Pomey's car, driven by Mrs. Geddie, for Danville. On reaching the Spruce Hill crossing near Danville, Mrs. Geddie brought the car to a stop, but a clump of bushes growing beside the track obstructed a clear view of the tracks. Thinking the track clear, Mrs. Geddie started across, but before they had reached the other side, the rear of the machine was struck by the oncoming train and thrown into the ditch. Mrs. Pomey, who was in the back seat of the vehicle with Mrs. Kelly and Miss Hampton, was killed instantly, having a broken neck; Miss Hampton, who was suffering from a broken spine and other internal injuries, was rendered first aid by Dr. R. H. Stevenson, of Danville, who was called to the scene, but died on the way to the hospital. Mrs. Kelly was found on admission to the hospital to be suffering a fracture of the left thigh.

Tree Planting Car. Ottawa. — The tree planting car of the Canadian Forestry Association, now on its 12th annual tour of the prairie provinces, carrying on its mission of interesting, encouraging and instructing the far-leas' ground strokes were a marvel to watch. At the competition the members of the home club served refreshments and the Sherbrooke players left for home quite satisfied with their afternoon's victory. If suitable arrangements can be made, the Celanese team will be guests of the Sherbrooke team next Sunday.

Study Our Market

Ottawa. — A party of prominent Japanese manufacturers and merchants have arrived in Vancouver and have started a tour of investigation of industry and observation in Canada and the United States. Their arrival gains added interest from the fact that the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is now making plans for an official tour of the interior, leaving Vancouver on October 16th.

The party will go to New York by way of Toronto and Montreal and finally to San Francisco where they will embark for home. They will travel across Canada stopping at Lake Louise, Banff, Winnipeg, and other western cities, Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls.

MANAGER wanted, for Drummondville store, experience unnecessary, $50.00 weekly to start also substantial share profits. Must be able furnish $250 to $1500 cash deposit on merchandise. Manager 4083 St. Denis Street, Montreal.

Drummond County Fair Will Be Held...

Officers of the Agricultural Society are the following: President, Rev. A. Thérion, Hon. H. Lafort, Minister of Colonization and Fisheries, who is expected to attend, and M. Wilfrid Girouard, M. P., who will be among the orators. Officers — James Gallagher, president; Xavier Charpentier, vice-president; J. C. Saint-Amant, secretary. Directors — James Gallagher, Alfred Rambois, George Mooney Alvah Cross, Edm. Provencier, Austin Duff, Maurice Raibeau, Henry Smith, Albert Label, Adrien Guerevont, Xavier Charpentier, C. M. Wintle, Eugene Caille, St. Simoneau, Johnston Walsh, Edmond Blanchet, Wm. McCrea, Wilfrid P. Joyal, Albert Niederer, Philippe Lamoureux, Donat Niederer, Philippe Lamoureux, Donat Niederer, Lamoureux Directors — C. N. Lyster, Nap. Proulx, C. H. Miller, W. H. Alex. Mercier, H.-E. Bieher, K. G. Nourse, Dr. A. Ragotte, Dr. Jos. Caron, Dr. G. de Y. Johnson, Anthony J. Cotte, Geo. O. Cummings, W. A. Moisan, Dr. L. Lane-Charpentier, Committees — Horas, J. Walsh, C. M. Wintle; Cattle, Moise Raibeau, Albert Label, Wilfrid Joyal, A. Guerevont; Hens, Henry Smith, Philippe Lamoureux, Edmond Blanchet; Sheep and Swine, Edm. Provencier, Eugene Caille, Alvah Cross; Fruits, Wm. McCrea, Fruits, Rains, Grain and Vegetables; Alfred Pautley, Xavier Charpentier, Dairy, Home-made Glass, Pastry, Flowers, etc. Donat Sarazin, Wm. McCrea, Austin Duff, Ladies Dept. present: Geo. Mooney, Albert Niederer, Mrs. Geo. Mooney, Mrs. X. Charpentier, Mrs. C. H. Bogie and Miss Maria St-Amant. Grounds, Reception and Entertainments: James Gallagher.

There will this year be an unusual large display of exhibits of all kinds at the Drummond Fair, it is reported.

Two Women Killed at C.N.R. Level Crossing in Danville. The six ladies, who were staying at Richmond, set out in Mrs. Pomey's car, driven by Mrs. Geddie, for Danville. On reaching the Spruce Hill crossing near Danville, Mrs. Geddie brought the car to a stop, but a clump of bushes growing beside the track obstructed a clear view of the tracks. Thinking the track clear, Mrs. Geddie started across, but before they had reached the other side, the rear of the machine was struck by the oncoming train and thrown into the ditch. Mrs. Pomey, who was in the back seat of the vehicle with Mrs. Kelly and Miss Hampton, was killed instantly, having a broken neck; Miss Hampton, who was suffering from a broken spine and other internal injuries, was rendered first aid by Dr. R. H. Stevenson, of Danville, who was called to the scene, but died on the way to the hospital. Mrs. Kelly was found on admission to the hospital to be suffering a fracture of the left thigh.

Tree Planting Car. Ottawa. — The tree planting car of the Canadian Forestry Association, now on its 12th annual tour of the prairie provinces, carrying on its mission of interesting, encouraging and instructing the far-leas' ground strokes were a marvel to watch. At the competition the members of the home club served refreshments and the Sherbrooke players left for home quite satisfied with their afternoon's victory. If suitable arrangements can be made, the Celanese team will be guests of the Sherbrooke team next Sunday.

Study Our Market. Ottawa. — A party of prominent Japanese manufacturers and merchants have arrived in Vancouver and have started a tour of investigation of industry and observation in Canada and the United States. Their arrival gains added interest from the fact that the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is now making plans for an official tour of the interior, leaving Vancouver on October 16th.

D'j'ever?

MANAGER wanted, for Drummondville store, experience unnecessary, $50.00 weekly to start also substantial share profits. Must be able furnish $250 to $1500 cash deposit on merchandise. Manager 4083 St. Denis Street, Montreal.

MANAGER wanted, for Drummondville store, experience unnecessary, $50.00 weekly to start also substantial share profits. Must be able furnish $250 to $1500 cash deposit on merchandise. Manager 4083 St. Denis Street, Montreal.

MANAGER wanted, for Drummondville store, experience unnecessary, $50.00 weekly to start also substantial share profits. Must be able furnish $250 to $1500 cash deposit on merchandise. Manager 4083 St. Denis Street, Montreal.

Why Be True to Life?

Here is an interesting question: is the vanity of mankind such that a man, extremely ugly and unappealing physically and unappealingly in his character, would be so dull mentally, would prefer his offspring to be an exact replica of himself, rather than that the child should be born with an attractive, consequently different? If the answer is in the affirmative, then the otherwise inexplicable craze for realism is explained. Why reproduce on canvas, or in print, or through any other channel of art, sordid, depressing, devastatingly dull scenes, the only merit of which is that they are true to life? Since the object is to be true to life, no doubt it is a merit to succeed, but again, why? When life is bleak and dreary it is to be presumed that the imagination will supply a source of escape, and it scarcely seems necessary to surround oneself with further examples of bleakness and dreariness in the form of relaxation to go home after a day's monotonous grind and read a detailed account of someone else's monotonous grind, and all the reactions thereto, in the form of a form of fantasy and romance waiting to be explored, and a tired brain can bathe itself clean in sparkling pages that are not in the least true to life.

Of course, there is an argument to be raised about the evil results of filling people's heads with "a little bit of fiction" to give them a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which is both well-written and entertaining. To go to extremes, the tales of the Arabian Nights, or the haunting stories of James Stephens, or the strange visions of James Branch Cabell are all more conducive to sanity than Sinclair Lewis' novels, which are, in fact, a very real danger will arise from allowing rather ill-balanced people to devour stories of passionate sheiks and burning sands. This is perfectly true, but it is necessary to remember the result of prominent education. In the good old days such a difficulty could not have arisen, for the education of the day was — being happily restricted. However, as with everything, there is a middle way between stark realism and sentimental bilge, and there is, or should be, an abundant literature, fiction and otherwise, which

SPORT NEWS

9 TO 0 VICTORY FOR LOCALS OVER SHAWINIGAN BALL TEAM

Visitors' Pitcher Was Easy Mark for D'ville Batters, Striking Out None Whilst Leduc Struck Out 12.

A. CORRIVEAU HITS FOR HOME

Quite a large crowd turned out at the Drummondville-Shawinigan baseball game, played on the Gossard Grounds, Sunday afternoon, and were witnesses to one of the most decidedly complete and easy wins recorded as yet by the local squad this season.

Leduc pitched wonderfully, striking out 12 men; Guay, for the visitors was not blessed with a single strike out, his balls being the victims of numerous pinches, liners and flies and one of them was slammed over the fence by Albert Coriveau who radiantly circled the diamond and who was the hero of a vibrant demonstration from the fans.

THE LINE-UP

Table with columns for SHAWINIGAN and DRUMMONDVILLE, listing players and their statistics (AB, R, H, PO, A, E).

Summary table for SHAWINIGAN and DRUMMONDVILLE with columns for R, H, E.

Home run: Coriveau; Sacrifice Hits: Beaulac, Demers, Bouchard; Stolen Bases: Coriveau, 4; Left on Bases: Shawinigan 7, Drummondville 9; First Base on Balls: of Leduc 1, off Guay 2; Hit by pitcher: by Leduc 2; Struck Out: by Leduc 12, by Guay 0.

TWO PEPPY GAMES BOOKED

The local baseball fans should not worry. Some more interesting games are still on the agenda, to be played here soon. Per example, the next two meets on the local diamond will be against the proud Asbestos nine, next Sunday afternoon, and the day following, Labor Day, against the feathered Montreal Braves.

Both visiting squads are too well known in D'ville to introduce them to the fans who will flock to the stands and bleachers, these two days of out-of-the-ordinary baseball here.

TOWNSHIPS GOLF TOURNAMENT IN SHERBROOKE WAS GREAT SUCCESS

Sherbrooke Country Club Wins Record Trophy. — Doak leads the field.—Jack Johnson Wins Junior Title with a Score of 91 for Eighteen Holes. — Three D'ville Players Qualified in Final Round.

The Eastern Townships Amateur Golf Tournament is completed and voted one of the most successful yet held. The first day's play was held in ideal weather conditions but the last was not so good. The weatherman frowned upon the course once or twice and made the going very hard. In spite of this Doak, went out in 32 and came in with a score of 42 giving him a total for the eighteen holes of 80 which is considered excellent under fine conditions and they were anything but fine on the last day.

The following is a list of those who qualified in the final round.

Table listing names and scores of golfers in the final round.

Stanbridge E. Man Is Injured In High Fall

Homer Yates, Jr., Broke Both Legs When He Fell Down Cement Elevator Shaft.

FELL 50 FEET

Stanbridge East. — Mr. Homer Yates, Jr., resident of this place, and employed at the pulp mill at Sheldon Springs, met with a serious accident last Saturday morning, while at work, when, through some misadventure, he fell down the elevator shaft for a distance of fifty feet.

Mr. Yates sustained two broken legs, a broken hip, and a badly mangled foot. He was immediately conveyed to the hospital in St. Albans, where his painful injuries are being treated.

Accident At...

(Continued from page 1)

Mr. Labrecque swerved his car to the side of the road. The attempt proved in vain, however, and the vehicle continued, in the ditch, dragging the unfortunate victim and crushing him against heavy rocks that were alongside the road. The car was brought to a halt when it struck a culvert and plunged into a deep ditch. Mr. Labrecque escaped uninjured and rushed to the aid of the boy.

A call was immediately put in to Dr. G. A. Bowen, of Magog, who arrived upon the scene to find that the lad had succumbed.

An inquest was held Saturday by Coroner L. Bachand, of Sherbrooke, into the tragedy, and a verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury.

Some fathers still seem wonderful to their small sons, and some tried to help work arithmetic.

Miss Ravior Is Victor In Long Distance Swim

Crowd of Over 75,000 Witnessed Finish of Race — After Most Sensational Performance of Day Ethel McGarry Did Not Even Place in Prize List.

Toronto, Ont. — Margaret Ravior, of Philadelphia, Pa., Friday won the women's long distance swimming championship of the world, when she took first place in the ten-mile marathon staged by the Canadian National Exhibition.

Trailing fifty, seventy-five and sometimes one hundred yards behind, Ethel McGarry, of New York, for most of the course, the Philadelphia girl finally forced her way past the leader at the eighth mile and ploughed through the last lap to win in five hours, 31 minutes and 39 4-5 seconds. She won not only a world's championship, but $5,000 in cash and an opportunity to enter the men's $15,000 swim next Wednesday.

Friday morning an unknown entrant, a total outsider except for the judgment of a few critics who conceded her a place in the money, Miss Ravior emerged from the waters of Lake Ontario at night as the premier woman swimmer of the world, successor to Gertrude Ederle, Ethel Hertle and Martha Norelius. Among the few who met her at the pressmen's float and who had all along expected her victory, was Mrs. George Ravior, her mother. The trainer, William Boggs, of the Philadelphia Elks' Club, had led her all the way, and from a row boat coached her in the long struggle by which she wore out the strength of Ethel McGarry.

Favorites were not lacking from the list of prize winners. Ruth Tower-Corsan was a close second and appeared to be unweary by her long ordeal as she climbed up on the finishing float. Mrs. Corsan swam third in 1928, and second last year. Her coach was her Canadian husband, Capt. George Corsan. Ethel Hertle-Gary, fifth last year, took third place and $1,000. The girl from Bronx, N. Y., was far ahead of the next three, May Looney, of Warren, O., Anna Priller Benoit, of Miami, Fla., and Irene Yuack, of Elmhurst, Long Island.

To Miss Looney goes the credit of swimming for nine miles with a one-leg beat, after straining that tendon of a leg in the first lap. She left the water with the injured leg in a badly swollen condition. Her remarkable performance, in spite of such a handicap, is puzzling the critics.

Sport Writers See Need for Younger Team

English Press Agrees that Better Team Won Yesterday's Test Cricket Match at Kensington Oval.

London. — Commentators agree today that the better team won yesterday's test match at the Kennington Oval, when Australia captured the "Ashes" by defeating England by an innings and thirty-eight runs. Several writers draw the moral that England must follow the examples of South Africa and Australia and build up a younger team.

P. F. Warner, writing in the Morning Post, suggests the appointment of a committee of three men to discover latent cricket talent. G. A. Faulkner says trial games next season should be confined to young men and that amateur talent should be enthusiastically fostered.

Critics of the English selection committee include Arthur Mailey, the Daily Herald's cricket correspondent, who declares that England lost the "Ashes" owing to the selectors' "safety first" tactics of strengthening the batting rather than the bowling. Voce should have been included in the team instead of Whysall, Mailey declares, adding that Voce's spin bowling would have ended Don Bradman's innings far sooner than was done. Mailey adds that it was a mistake to depose A. P. F. Chapman, England's captain for the first four games, on the eve of the critical fifth match. Chapman himself, however, chivalrously defends the selectors and declared they chose the best teams available for the five matches but that the Australians were the better side.

The Daily Telegraph condemns the "timeless test," that is, matches are played to a conclusion without a time limit, and says that if English cricketers cultivate a technique for such long games they will do irreparable harm to English cricket. The News-Chronicle says that Don Bradman's style of batsmanship will ultimately have to be barred in the same way as was the anchor stroke in billiards, because it makes matters most exhausting to players and most tedious to spectators.

E. T. News

(Continued from page 1)

tion and knocked to the ground. Mr. Lacourse was crossing the street when a car driven by Mr. Alphonse McDonald, of North Hatley, and headed for North Hatley, struck him and inflicted bad bruises to the right side of his face. It was at first thought that the condition of the victim, who is said to be in the neighborhood of seventy years of age, was serious, and he was rushed to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital by Jalbert's ambulance, where his cuts and bruises were treated. His condition is not reported as serious.

PAINFUL INJURIES

Stanstead. — Mr. Abbott White, of Barnet, Vt., met with a painful accident in Beche, on Sunday afternoon. Mr. White had been visiting friends in Graniteville, and was on his way home, when he stopped to examine his car, which was not running well. He had jacked up the axle, and was under the car when the jack broke, and the car fell upon him.

Friends came to his assistance and he was brought to Dr. Ross' office in Stanstead, suffering considerable pain. After first aid had been rendered by Dr. Ross, he was taken by the doctor to the Newport Hospital for an X-ray examination and was later removed to Graniteville for a few days. The X-ray examination showed that although he was badly bruised, no bones were broken.

Canadian Stocks...

(Continued from page 1)

stock markets this week is hailed in responsible circles as one of the most reassuring developments in recent months.

Declines by the oil stocks at Toronto and Montreal last week were attributable to conflicting reports regarding the progress of curtailment measures in the leading oil fields. From some centres it was reported that curtailment plans were being successfully carried out and production had decreased but other oil fields gave district evidence of difficulty in enforcing the proration agreement. In addition the action of one leading oil company in passing its dividend had an unsettling influence. Imperial Oil, International Petroleum and British American Oil were the focal points of trading in petroleum shares in Canada. British American Oil closed the week at 15 5-8 compared with 15 3-4 a week ago, and Imperial Oil at 19 1-8 was down from 19 1-4 last week. International Petroleum lost 1 1-8 points in Friday's session alone and at its closing price of 18 1-8 compares with prices as high as 19 1-2 in the last few days. The shares are, however, slightly higher than their levels of a week ago. Among industrials the majority of price changes were of little consequence. City Dairy shares are firm at 66 1-2 following the announcement that shareholders ratified the sale of the company to Borden.

Trading on Canadian mining exchanges was rather confused and on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange activity centred chiefly on the oil group prices moving irregularly.

Splendid Exhibit...

(Continued from page 1)

find accommodation for their stock out of doors at the railing provided for just such an emergency as existed Monday morning.

Shortly after dinner a procession, headed by Piper Campbell and the Warwick Brass Band, wended its way to the grounds, where the midway was already in full swing and doing a good business and where the judges in the ladies' department were busily engaged in allotting the prizes to the successful competitors.

In the live stock departments there was a good showing of hogs of the bacon classes and early in the afternoon the judges had finished their work there.

The judging of sheep was in progress most of the afternoon. Sheep presented the best exhibit that has been for some years. Shropshires and Cheviots seem to be the favorite varieties, with Leisters and Oxfords following in close order. The judges report large entries in every class of this department.

There were six herds of Holsteins, totaling sixty-one head in all. These were shown by W. H. Skillen, Ulverton; H. E. Perkins, Greenlay; Lawrence Wheeler, Bromptonville; William Rogers, Cleveland; H. Coles, Richmond; Gustav Bergeron, Cleveland and M. W. Carson, South Durham.

Jersey and Ayrshire had an equal number of herds showing there being five exhibitors in each class. These herds comprised fifty Ayrshires and forty-seven Jerseys. The Jerseys were exhibited by W. A. Royal and sons, Melbourne; R. A. Crack, Kingsbury; H. A. Fowler, Melbourne; W. J. Fowler, Melbourne; Leonard Driver, Kingsbury and R. S. Carson, South Durham.

The special entertainment before the grand stand attracted a large crowd, and was much appreciated by those who witnessed the dancing by Miss Pomeroy's graceful pupils and the wonderful performance of the trained dogs of Prof. Albert Drapeau.

The splendid exhibit of cattle was in keeping with the reputation Richmond County already enjoys for the breeding of first class herds of beef and dairying varieties. It also serves to maintain the reputation that the Richmond Fair has of being a real agricultural fair. No doubt the splendid special prizes offered have been an inducement for farmers to show their stock and the fine herds of Holstein, Jersey, Ayrshire and French Canadian would gladden the heart of any one interested in stock raising.

Showing by herds, the Short-horns had the largest number of exhibitors, there being seven herds with a total of sixty-five cattle. The owners and exhibitors of these are: Archie Moore, Kingsbury; L. O. and G. R. Booth, Melbourne; J. D. and F. Stalker, Melbourne; P. I. Elliott, Danville; W. and F. Coniskey, Cleveland and W. J. Denison, Denison's Mills.

Sherbrooke Fair...

(Continued from page 1)

their Exhibition friends feel at home, and to thoroughly enjoy themselves while on the grounds.

The new live stock Arena, which was recently constructed on the grounds, will be operated for the first time this year. From morning until night the Arena space will be devoted to the display of live stock and its allied interests, and the various breeds will alternate in occupying the spacious judging ring.

Again the dog show is prominently mentioned on the programme, and all dog fanciers and lovers are assured of a real treat when they visit the building which will be used by this important feature of the exhibition.

The sum up all the features and attractions which are to be found within the gates of Sherbrooke's Exhibition would be somewhat of a difficult task. There are attractions for everyone. Those seeking amusement and a carefree afternoon or evening will immediately loiter about the midway, which is said to be one of the finest yet secured. Those who prefer spending their time on the grand stand will have the opportunity of witnessing a varied programme, and one which the directors feel will please everyone. Then there are the numerous buildings, including, of course, the main building, dairy buildings, poultry, women's department, section reserved for the children, art, domestic exhibits and numerous others.

Everything that goes to make an exhibition what it should be will be found this year on the grounds of Sherbrooke's Exhibition. During the coming week a good motto for everyone would be "Let's meet at the exhibition grounds."

Soil Improvement...

(Continued from page 1)

as follows: Coaticook, Compton, Lennoxville, Bromptonville, Windsor Mills, Richmond, Danville, Warwick, St. Agapit, Dosquet, Ste. Julie, Plessisville, Princeville, Victoriaville, Aston Jet, St. Leonard Jet, St. Cyrille, Drummondville, St. Germain, St. Eugene, Bagot, Upton, Atonval, S. Durham, St. Hyacinthe, St. Barnabe, St. Jude, St. Aime, Doucet Landing, Nicolet, La Baie, Pierreville, Yamaska, Sorel, Contrecoeur, Vercheres. Two places will be visited each day.

Farmers could double and even treble their production with increased use of lime and fertilizer, state the agricultural authorities of the province, without adding anything to other costs of operation. Quebec farmers, it is stated, pay ten times as much for feed for livestock as they do for lime and fertilizer, and there is a great need for increased use of the latter if the soil of the province is to be kept up to a high standard of production.

SAUCE FOR THE DR... A certain club had rep... familiar black-coated serv... young, and sometimes pre... resses. One of the old... members who had strongly... the idea dropped in to... day.

Salada is the best value among Orange Pekoe blends

How Much Did The Election Cost YOU?

FOR EIGHT WEEKS members of our Government — past and potential — provided us with an interest-gripping, Dominion-wide exhibition of oratorical fisticuffs. In every constituency from Sydney to Vancouver, exponents of "Grit" and "Tory" policies harangued the voter with the pros and cons of Canada's status past, present and future.

In an earnest endeavor to grasp the essentials which would decide where his support should be placed, the Canadian householder listened to the leading orators of both parties all over the Dominion — through the newspapers.

Your local newspaper performs the function of bringing into your own home, every week in the year, the outstanding items of interest in the world, but more particularly, the vital happenings in your own district and the intimate gossip of the doing of our neighbors.

At a total cost of Two Dollars per year — scarcely four cents a week — Can you buy as much for so little anywhere else?

In order that we may keep "The Spokesman" at its best, we want your co-operation in sending us news of your visitors, your visits, or other happenings, in telling us of prospective subscribers, and by paying your subscription promptly when the label, which carries your name and the date on which your subscription expires, say it its due.

A paid-up subscription list is the greatest asset a newspaper could possess. Will you watch yours closely please? It's so easy to forget—Just two dollars, so

"Look at the Label every week"

Work up a Thirst! and then enjoy a bottle of-

Frontenac Old Ale Brew

NOTICE EMPLOYEES MUST DO NO OTHER BUSINESS WHILE WORKING OUR MACHINES DOES THE REST CHANGE! THEN FOR A BOTTLE OF